BYRON NIXON'S WILL PROBATED.

Document Was a Letter to His Brother in This City.

SEVERAL BEQUESTS.

Writing Proven in Court By Several Witnesses.

A letter written by the late J. Byron Nixon to his brother, W. H. Nixon, of this city, was probated as the will of said deceased in the county court Saturday. The letter was written in Los Angeles, Cal., and bears the date of January 2, 1906. Thos. H. Ennis, Joe P. P'Pool and W. H. Nixon proved the writing to be that of the late J. B. Nixon. The document stated in part that the writer desired W. H. Nixon to have all his personal property, jewelry, clothing and money. That he had on that date returned to the Mutual Life Insurance Co., of New York, a policy of $6,000 to have W. H. Nixon made beneficiary. Also that he had returned to the Equitable Life Assurance Society, of New York, a policy of $2,000 for the same purpose. That two policies had been sent to the New York Life Insurance Company, (amounts not given), to have his sister, Eva Nixon, made beneficiary. On these policies it was stated that his sister was to receive $120 a year as long as she lives, but should she not live twenty-five years, after his death, the amount must be paid to some one. Deceased had applied for a policy in the New York Life Insurance Company for $5,000, stating that if same was granted "and I die, I want my brother, J. C. Nixon, to have one-third of this policy, brother Even Nixon one-third, and brother Aaron's wife, Willie V. Townes, one-third." Then the following paragraph appears: "This letter to take the place of a letter to you, dated March, 1904, in regard to the disposition of my estate." The communication ended as follows: "My trip here was hurried, owing to illness of the lady I am engaged to, and since my arrival she has died. This is why I am making these policies over to you at this time. I will be in Hopkinsville Jan. 15, and will go to Pensacola about Feb. 1."

The Pythian Knights.

The local lodge Knights of Pythias attended the services to men only at the Methodist church Sunday night in a body and the line-up was the longest that has been seen in the city for a long time by any one order. Each man in line wore a beautiful carnation, either white, red or pink, with the compliments of their brother Knight, Mr. T. L. Metcalfe, who is one of the most popular members of the order. At the next meeting of the lodge a vote of thanks will be extended Mr. Metcalfe for his thoughtful courtesy.

New Manager.

Mr. Thomas Ennis is wearing a broad smile. A bouncing big boy arrived at his house last Sunday afternoon and has taken charge of everybody in the home. The little fellow is decidedly in favor of home rule and the manager of the Opera House is inclined to turn the business over to him.

Fatal Fire.

Lotta Glenn, fifteen years of age, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Glenn, of Davless county, was burned to death Sunday, her dress catching fire from an open grate.

"Why Smith Left Home"

The U. D. C. entertainment at the Opera House, Friday night, Feb. 16, will draw one of the biggest crowds of the season. The cast of the play is made up of the strongest local talent in the city.

IN DEATH STRUGGLE

Poor Old Tom Hopkins Fought Hard For His Life.

SMOKING WHEN SEIZED.

Story of the Murder As it Occurred in the Darkness of Midnight.

Evidence is accumulating that poor old Tom Hopkins was brutally murdered and his body placed on the L. & N. Railroad track, where it was cut to pieces last Thursday night.

The post mortem examination ordered by County Attorney Duffy on information from Officers Duke and Claxton and Dr. T. W. Blake, L. & N. physician, after an inquest had been held returning a verdict of accidental death, which changed the whole aspect of things. Dr. Andrew Sargent positively asserted that at least three knife wounds were found on his body, besides numerous cuts made by some sharp instrument, possibly an iron pin.

Subsequent examination of the scene of the murder throws additional light on the murder. Late Wednesday night Hopkins was seen near the Home Mills talking to some negroes about taking him to Walter O'Neal's. They disappeared together. The negroes are known. Less than two hours later the old man's mutilated corpse was found. The wounds on his body show that he was seized from behind and reaching over his right shoulder—the old man was short of stature—a knife was raked across his throat, which did not make made into his throat and the knife turned round. The jugular vein was not cut and the muscular old Irishman dropped his pipe from his mouth and a scuffle ensued. This struggle carried them to the bottom of an embankment of several feet where the cob pipe still filled with half burned tobacco was picked up. Finally the old man was brought to his knees by the blows on his head. A place on the ground plainly showed the imprint of the cloth over his knee. Then while on his knees or lying prostrate on the ground, the deep lunge was made into his side, making a hole one inch in diameter, four inches to the left of the navel.

Then the old man was dragged up the embankment like a hog and placed upon the railroad track. The place where he was dragged was plainly shown on the bank. The old man may not have been entirely dead when hit by the train, but he was undoubtedly helpless and dying, unable to even crawl out of danger. Dr. Sargent was not sure from the wounds made by the rails whether they were made before or after death. The lacerations were bright red, but the chemicals used may have caused the bright appearance of the wounds. Whether he was dead or merely beaten into insensibility the work was completed in the dead hours of midnight, and the old man's body scattered along the railroad in "San Domingo," one of the most unsavory negro settlements in the county.

The order for $6 which he tried to have cashed the evening before was not found in his pocket. If it had been cashed, the money was gone. This is an important point in the case.

The murder could hardly have been carried out with more brutality. The old man was harmless as a child. He was drinking some, just enough to make him happy and good natured. At 10 o'clock he was singing a jolly song on Ninth street, the last man on earth who would think of suicide. The theory of suicide is ridiculous and not to be considered seriously.

It was murder, bloody, brutal, fendish murder. It is to be hoped that Gov. Beckham will offer a reward for the apprehension of the fiends who committed the crime. Because Hopkins was old and friendless, is no reason why the crime should be treated lightly.

NEW SCHEDULE.

Hopkinsville Accommodation
Leaves Half an Hour
Earlier.

A new time card on the L. & N. went into effect Sunday. Only one train out of this city is materially affected by the change. The Hopkinsville and Nashville accommodation now departs at 6:10 a. m., instead of 6:40, or thirty minutes earlier. This train reaches Nashville at 8:55 a. m. Returning, the accommodation leaves Nashville at 5:45 p. m. and reaches Hopkinsville at 8:55 p. m. No. 55, the St. Louis Fast Mail, South bound passes here at 5:47 a. m., meeting No. 92, North bound, at this point. There was a change made in the schedule of Nos. 51 and 52.

A new train has been added between Erin and Nashville, thus giving three trains each morning into Nashville from here and three returning each afternoon. The new train leaves Guthrie at 8:30 a. m., and reaches Nashville at 10:05. This train stops regularly at Springfield, and on signal for passengers to and from Nashville at Cedar Hill, Greenbrier and Ridge Top.

$50,000 IN IMPROVEMENTS.

Work of Extending Side Trackage Begun by L. & N. Yesterday.

WORK WILL BE PUSHED

Will Be no Occasion for Blocking Street Crossing when Completed.

The improvements in the yards of the L. & N. here, a detailed account of which appeared in the columns last fall, under orders of Division Superintendent John W. Lagsdoh, are of great importance.

Mr. Logsdon was here a couple of weeks ago to let out the contract, and now he has his surveyors on the ground. The contractor for grading put a force of 50 men at work yesterday and the work will be pushed to a rapid completion.

As if generally known, the L. & N. has for sometime past realized the necessity for more side trackage here. As the trackage will be increased on both sides of the river it will be sometime before the work is completed. The price for grading is $25,000, this with the other expense of rails, etc., will bring the total up to $50,000 or more.

A telegraph station will be located North of the bridge where all orders will be received and given to freight conductors. This side away with all through freight trains stopping in the city. Cars containing merchandise for our merchants will be pulled into the city by the yard engine.

Everybody will rejoice when Mr. Logsdon has carried out his ideas. They know him to be a man of deeds as well as ideas and are not surprised at what he has undertaken.

"The people may expect something greater from him before the year is gone. He and local agent Hooe are a whole team of themselves, and have under consideration a large and commodious passenger station, with carshed extending from 9th to 10th street.

Miss Lettie Pierson and her aunt, Mrs. D. I. Smith, of Pembroke, visited friends in the city Saturday.

Miss Jennie Hooser has been in Todd county several days visiting relatives.

The announcement of performance of "The Holy City" at Holland's Opera House, Tuesday night, Jan. 30, (this evening), is received with great satisfaction. No play presented this season has made the impression credited to this great Biblical play produced by Gordon & Bennett in even more sumptuous manner than is their other conspicuously successful productions. The coterie of players, trained chorus and monster scenic equipment of this grand dramatic spectacle is everywhere praised for superior combination, and in a ranging for its appearance here, believing the public to be more interested

For Thin Babies

Fat is of great account to a baby; that is why babies are fat. If you baby is scrawny, Scott's Emulsion is what he wants. The healthy baby stores as fat what it does not need immediately for bone and muscle. Fat babies are happy; they do not cry; they are rich; their fat is laid up for time of need. They are happy because they are comfortable. The fat surrounds their little nerves and cushions them. When they are scrawny those nerves are hurt at every ungentle touch. They delight in Scott's Emulsion. It is as sweet as wholesome to them.

Miss Pym from the West

By AMY F. CACKETT

(Copyright, 1905, by Joseph B. Dowling.)

It was quite by chance that Miss Norah Illington Pym found a place in our quiet boarding house, and to us it was a subject for constant wonder that she remained where things generally were so "slow."

The first night, arrayed in splendor, she looked around the room in amazement and pity, and then heggled up with stories of the style people in our station kept up in the west.

On the second night three of our ladies turned in the necks of their blouses and wore lace. By the end of the week our ladies all appeared in evening blouses, our hostess introduced menus and entrees at dinner, and the kitchen girl was pressed into cap and frills and brought up to trip in the waiting.

Our ladies made still further efforts to reach her level by wearing all their jewelry and making a show of everything they possessed.

One afternoon, after an interview in our hostess' private room, a suave, well-dressed stranger entered into our midst and introduced as a new boarder.

Within an hour he had won all hearts except that of Miss Pym. She looked on in a sort of scorn while he waited on the ladies with ingratiating smiles. As soon as he was safely out of hearing quite a chorus of voices said: "What a charming man!"

Miss Pym fidgeted for a moment, and then suddenly jumped to her feet. "I reckon," she said, nodding her head.

"I know it is the one in the west. If a man comes fooling around, bowing and scraping, where the women don't want to go, and good-looking, we put a four-bar lock on our jewelry cases and tell the police to keep their eyes on him."

"Good gracious!" You don't mean to suggest that Mr. Compton—"Never your mind!" broke in Miss Pym. "I've got a safe upstairs, so I reckon," she said, nodding her head.

room, and she went as hard as she could while the man inside began to bang on the door and demand his freedom.

"Do you hear?" is anyone there?" he cried. "Let me out at once."

"Oh, yes! I am here," I replied. "And you are there, and there you are going to stay until the policeman."

"For Heaven's sake don't be a fool, man. I can soon prove to you that it is all right. Let me out at once. I can take a look at every moment."

"I can quite believe that," I answered, with a knowing smile. "Every moment belongs to the policeman."

"The police won't come, you idiot!" he shouted.

"You must have a little patience," I answered,ardonally.

"I tell you, man, they will never get here, unless you send a servant for them. For goodness' sake, send some one. I am a detective. They will know me!"

"I can quite believe your last remark," I chuckled, but I am not going to move from this door even to send for more documents.

He then offered to push his credentials under the door for me to read, but I assured him that I was no judge of forged documents.

Something like a groan came back in reply, and I concluded that my man had given up hope of escape.

But the rule I had made out that Miss Pym had been a long time away, and on referring to my watch I found that almost half an hour had elapsed.

Quite a look of surprise on the policeman's face, and after listening to some hurried instructions they quickly retired from the room, leaving Mr. Compton and myself alone.

"For Mrs. Illington," he said, turning to where I stood in amazement, "I am half inclined to have you arrested for aiding the escape of a criminal. You have done that pretty effectually," he went on, looking at his watch. "She has had almost an hour's start."

"Good heavens!" I exclaimed; "you don't mean to tell me—"

"I mean," he interrupted, "that I have been staying at this house for the sole purpose of watching Miss Pym. Unfortunately she must, apparently, have identified me, but she was very careful, to keep the knowledge to herself."

This afternoon I saw her fast asleep in the dining-room, and availing myself of the opportunity of searching her room. The little evidence that I have gathered here would be sufficient for my purpose. But owing to your clumsy interference and her cleverness, she has slipped off. There is only one thing to be thankful for, and that is that she has taken anything with her this time."

"Are you sure of that?" I groaned.

"Quite," he answered; "the ladies had all their jewelry on last night, and I know Miss Pym has not been near any of their rooms to-day."

"You had better come down and see them," I said, helplessly.

He hastily explained to them how matters stood. But they were at first too frightened to understand.

"Now," he finished up, "hope, ladies, you all have your jewelry and money safe."

"Oh, yes!" said Miss Moleworthy, timidly. "We have it all to Miss Pym. Last night to lock up her little safe."

Almost before she had finished speaking, Mr. Norton was up the stairs. When I followed quickly behind him. When I entered Miss Pym's room she was standing with the door of the safe open—and it was practically empty.

I am I regret to say, quite convinced of the fact, however, that Miss Norah Illington Pym, for she is still at large.

YE HUNTSMAN.

Now doth ye little huntsman
Take "hunting license" oute
And with a brand-new "quintine"
He goeth forth to scout
And seek ye beastes ferocious
That bawle ye woodies aboute.
He seekes with yeest ye rabbit,
And ske ye doe and bucke,
But presently he scooteth
And findes ye woodies aboute.
And as he payeth for lile,

Anon he tries another,

And breaketh through ye forest
And findes ye woodies aboute.
And suddenly he baggeth
A costly hired man.
Mark well ye cille huntsman!

But when a hare ye scoot,

"The Holy City."

The announcement of performance of "The Holy City" at Holland's Opera House, Tuesday night, Jan. 30, (this evening), is received with great satisfaction. No play presented this season has made the impression credited to this great Biblical play produced by Gordon & Bennett in even more sumptuous manner than is their other conspicuously successful productions. The coterie of players, trained chorus and monster scenic equipment of this grand dramatic spectacle is everywhere praised for superior combination, and in a ranging for its appearance here, believing the public to be more interested

THE SECOND
MEN'S MEETING.

Knights of Pythias in Large Numbers Accept Invitation.

ABOUT 250 CONVERSIONS

Eighteen Persons Admitted
to Full Connection Last Sunday.

Rev. P. H. Davis preached last Sunday night at the Methodist church to a packed house, composed entirely of men.

The members of the Knights of Pythias order had accepted an invitation and seats were reserved for them. A conservative estimate places the number who attended at 125.

The evangelist took for his text
"He took him by the right hand and lifted him up." His theme was helping the man who is down. He started out by saying that he believes in the brotherhood of man and Fatherhood of God. He said that no man has the right to abuse the fellow who is the slave of drink or has any great besetting sin. If church members would reclaim fallen men they must stoop down and take them by the hand and help them up and must hold to them after they are up. By many men needs friends. He thanked God that he has friends all over the state, who have helped him, and he wants to be a friend to everybody.

Churches and all kinds of fraternal order do help a man, but they cannot save a soul. He spoke at length of the love of God, who loved every man, woman and child in the world
so much that he gave his only Son to come into the world to save them.

He then spoke of the love of Christ,
who was always comforting the troubled and healing the afflicted.

The preacher related several incidents that caused ripples of laughter
to be heard over the congregation.
They were not out of order, however,
as they relieved the high tension to which the evangelist had drawn them by his earnest pleas for every body to lend the strong right hand to the man who was down. At the conclusion of his sermon an invitation was given those who wanted to turn their backs on their old ways, burn
the bridges behind them and live a new life, to go forward and give their hands to evangelist. Only two or three responded, but quite a number remained to the aftermeeting.

The meetings will continue during this week, which is the fourth week.
The sermon to young people Sunday afternoon was delivered to a full house.

Eighteen persons were admitted to full connection with the church
last Sunday.

Dr. Lyon announced Sunday night that, including those who have been reclaimed, there have been over 250 conversions thus far. It is known that there are 40 other converts who will unite with the Methodist church.

The ministers of the different churches have made a thorough and systematic canvass of the city. It was divided into sections and a house visitation made, and, as we have been informed, the ministers were surprised at the small number who do not attend some church.

COLLISION

In Which Several Slight Injuries Were Sustained.

Saturday evening, after dark, just outside the city limits Mr. Clay Jones and his sister, Miss Ida, came near being the victims of a serious accident. They were driving leisurely into the city to attend the revival services at the Methodist church.
When near the city, when probably too close to turn out of the way, after seeing a runaway horse attached to a buggy approaching, a collision occurred. The shock was fearful. The horse that got beyond the control of the driver was running like a streak
when he struck the buggy of young Mr. Jones. Mr. Jones and his sister were thrown from the buggy but only sustained slight injuries. The buggy was torn to pieces and is unfit for further service. T. H. Carliss, Jr., whose horse got away with him says that if axes and hammers had been used it could not have been more completely demolished. Only a wheel and a shaft of his own buggy were broken and he has cut over his right eye. The escape from more serious injury was almost miraculous.

Midnight Fire Destroys a Farm House at Kennedy.

SICK LADY'S CLOSE CALL

Loss Is $2,000 With Only
$1,000 Insurance Protection.

Kennedy, Ky., Jan. 29.—The farm residence of Thomas A. Jones was burned last night at midnight. Mr.
Jones heard a noise up stairs and arose to investigate and found the roof ablaze. Mrs. Jones was sick with pneumonia and got out of bed and walked barefooted to the cabin near by. The neighbors responded as quickly as possible and aided in saving household effects, but much of the furniture was lost. The piano was too heavy to move and was destroyed. The loss was about $2,000 with $1,000 insurance. The exposure endured by Mrs. Jones, it is feared, will be attended by most serious results. The cause of the fire is not known.

AMUSEMENTS.

From beginning to end there have been few plays in the history of the stage more completely equipped than is "When Knighthood Was In Flower," touring this season under the management of Kans, Shipman and Colvin with Roselle Knott as "Mary Tudor." The costumes for the historical figures in play have been prepared by the best costumers in New York and are complete in every detail. The old furniture, the tapestry, the armor, the wall sconces, the books, all have been selected because of their special fitness; and one of the hardest things in the rehearsals of the play has been the old fashioned court dance which is introduced in the first act and which moves to the rhythm of old fashioned music. In its last act the play is unique in that the good old atmosphere is retained to the very last, and there is an epilogue spoken by Miss Knott which comes as a sort of personal appeal to the feminine portion of the audience and which proves the climax of the good and lasting impression made by Mary Tudor throughout the drama.

night, Feb. 5.
